

Marx on Economics from the Worker's Standpoint (1821)
By Karl Marx

Introduction by Deepak Bakshi (MLRO formerly, Worker's Party Presently)

Imagine a whole set of workers being prepared to go for the factory, and then of course mediating workers as Marx is calling it, which I call a whole set of workers who are busy preparing fronts as Sirohi would remember in Worker Solidarity senses of forums and forms, which then becomes three tiers in the working class - I imagine instead the generalized expression to come from within the working class - a small set of us philosophers of Marx creating a mediating and leading class merger which creates a front called strike front - and I imagine this to be creating a fused dynamic for strikes.

Thank you,

Reporting from within the Delhi and even Mumbai recently found northern sector working classes.

Marx -

I. Organic Composition and Segmentation of the Working Class in that Composition

Working class from its standpoint realizes that it is a organised mass of workers, and in that position comes the advanced workers who organise the protest and the backward position that participates in the protest and the mediating workers who are participating and leading both, with a number of dogmatic Communist Trade Unions which then forms the organic composition by large leading assemblies and talking panels which then mediates the whole working class and is then fused when there is a general strike scenario.

The working class can also participate in its own assemblies and have many forms of strike or strike-type activity which again ranges between the mass position which is laboring in factories and mass position which is rejecting the factories, and between them the demonstrations and assemblies which are in either position and which are mediating, which finally becomes forms of strike-type activity including working class participation in walking away from and towards the factory belt.

II. Capital and its Attack on the Working Class Positions

When the workers realize their class wide social relation is numbered in these positions - advanced, backward and mediating either in leading class strike or in TU organised masses or even in laboring processes and finally when the social relation is mediated by class oppressors - the strike breaker, or the permanent staff or even the TU organizer who is reified and even supervisors and police authorities and finally all those that refuse to accept that the capital is performing an exploitation and rate of exploitation towards their minting of money by commodity assembly-lines which then fit the management and capitalist who is busy minting money and investing in the automobile or technical component of commodities and is the investing that cycle in another nation and exploiting workers in that other nation and so is busy making international financial cycles like this - and is attacking workers by calling for a lock-out on strikes.

III. International Working Class and International Cycle of Class Action and Dependent Class of Peasants

The working class in the international cycle of class action then is busy in these positions as symmetric and is also busy in their class action and protest dynamic which then is a strike scenario - in this sense the peasant class is busy also in the international sense forming peasant action and is the peasant sack of potatoes who are then a class-in-itself which becomes for-itself when it revolutionizes itself into say a jacquerie or a picket or even a final line on mass strike with the Communist agrarian TUs. The peasant class is also backward or leading but never mediating.
